A New Beginning for Greater Lake Worth

Welcome to the inaugural issue of Greater Lake Worth Living.

What began as a vision has now become something you can hold in your hands.

Over the past several months, we have walked into hundreds of businesses, spoken with residents, listened to their ideas and concerns, and learned more about what makes the Greater Lake Worth area special. Those conversations have helped shape this publication and will continue to guide us as we grow.

Greater Lake Worth Living was created to bring greater visibility, recognition, and connection to the businesses, residents, organizations, and people who make this area home. I also founded the Greater Lake Worth Society to further this journey of connecting residents with local businesses. (See ad inside back page for more details.)

In this issue, our featured story introduces Tonya Blasco of BODYBAR Pilates, opening soon in our area. As we head into the holiday season—and begin thinking about those New Year's resolutions—Tonya brings a fresh approach to movement, strength, and wellness that we are excited to welcome to Greater Lake Worth.

We also feature In the Spotlight: Dr. Salvatore DeCanio, giving you an opportunity to get to know one of the professionals serving our area—and the person behind the practice.

Enjoy "From Farmland to Fairways" as we explore the origins of Lake Worth and the surrounding area. In every issue, I hope to bring you more local history, fun facts, and interesting tidbits that help us discover the stories behind the places we pass every day.

Throughout these pages, you'll also find Community Highlights and our Calendar of Events to help you discover what's happening and find things to do around Greater Lake Worth. Our Directory and Community Resource Guide is designed to help you find businesses and services closer than you think—whether you're shopping, looking for medical or financial services, dining out, or treating yourself to a little self-care. We're building a trusted local resource to help steer you in the right direction while making it easier to stay close to home and support the businesses that serve our area.

There is even more to discover at GreaterLakeWorthLiving.com. Our website is an extension of the magazine, where we take you beyond the printed pages with more in-depth stories, local events, announcements, updates, and features throughout the year.

A personal thank-you goes to Robyn Perry, our Account Manager. Most importantly, I want to extend a very special thank-you to our Founding Advertisers and Supporters. You believed in this vision before there was a first issue to show. You trusted what we were building and chose to become part of it from the very beginning. I will always be grateful for that trust.

As you turn these pages, I hope you discover something you didn't know was here, find somewhere new to visit, learn something about the area, attend a local event, meet someone new—or simply feel a little more connected to the place we call home.

Thank you for welcoming Greater Lake Worth Living into your homes and businesses.

We are just getting started.

Warmly,

Dr. Karina G. Felix

A Clear Vision for Whole-Person Wellness

Meet Dr. Salvatore DeCanio of Choice Vision Care & Wellness

After more than three decades in eye care, Dr. Salvatore DeCanio is bringing a distinctive vision to the Lake Worth community: expert eye care and wellness services delivered in an inviting, spa-like environment.

Tell us a little about yourself and your journey.

I'm a South Florida native who grew up in Boynton Beach and graduated from Atlantic High School in Delray Beach. After earning my bachelor's degree in biology from Wake Forest University, I spent a year conducting heart disease research at its medical school.

I then earned my Doctor of Optometry degree from the University of Houston College of Optometry and completed an elective residency in hospital-based optometry and ocular disease at the VA Medical Center in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

For more than 30 years, I've held leadership roles in private and corporate eye care practices, including four years as executive director of TLC Laser Eye Centers in Boca Raton. My latest chapter is Choice Vision Care & Wellness—a unique eye care and wellness facility serving the Greater Lake Worth community.

What does Choice Vision Care & Wellness offer?

We provide comprehensive vision and eye health care, along with an on-site optical boutique. Our wellness services include medical-grade whole-body red light therapy, in-depth massage therapy, natural skin care products, HydraFacials, chemical peels and microneedling.

What inspired you to create this business?

I wanted to create an exceptional eye care experience—one that people would genuinely remember. By combining advanced care with a comfortable, spa-like atmosphere, we can support our patients' vision, wellness and overall quality of life in a truly different way.

Why did you choose this community?

We are located at 8475 Lake Worth Road, Suite 200, near the northeast corner of Blanchette Trail and Lake Worth Road.

I chose this location because Greater Lake Worth is a growing community, and I'm excited to build lasting relationships with the people who live here.

What would you most like readers to know?

We're committed to creating a positive experience unlike any other. Everything we do—from comprehensive eye care to our wellness services—is centered on helping people see, feel and live better.

A Special Offer for Greater Lake Worth Living Audience

New customers are invited to enjoy a complimentary 15-minute Red Light Therapy Bed session.

Limit one offer per person. Offer expires December 31, 2026. To redeem, mention this magazine when you call 561-246-6554 to schedule an appointment. ∞

Robyn Perry

From photography and advertising to sailing the Caribbean, Robyn Perry has collected more than a few good stories along the way. Now a longtime Lake Worth resident, she brings decades of sales experience, an adventurous spirit and a genuine love of connecting with people to the Greater Lake Worth Living team.

GLWL: Let's start at the beginning. Where are you originally from?

Robyn: I was born in Bangor, Maine. I studied Art History at Cazenovia College and graduated in 1972. That same summer, I worked as a still photographer for WNYS-TV. I later attended C.W. Post and earned my bachelor's degree in Cinematography in 1974.

GLWL: So before advertising and sales, you were behind the camera?

Robyn: Yes! From 1974 to 1978, I traveled around the country photographing students for high school and college yearbooks. I had the opportunity to see a lot of the United States through my work.

GLWL: How did you make the leap from photography into advertising?

Robyn: After moving to Cape Cod in 1978, I helped open a Valpak territory selling coupon advertising through direct mail. That was really my introduction to advertising sales.

GLWL: And eventually Florida entered the picture. What brought you here?

Robyn: My husband and I married in 1986, and in 1987 we moved to Florida when he was offered a position running a marina in Delray Beach. I went to work selling memberships for the Palm Beach Better Business Bureau and, within six months, was offered the position of Director of Memberships.

GLWL: But you also became an entrepreneur.

Robyn: I did. In 1990, I started my own business, Invitations by Robyn, which I operated until selling it in 1999.

GLWL: And then you did something most people only dream about—you sailed away!

Robyn: We did! After selling the business, my husband and I left to cruise the eastern Caribbean aboard our 41-foot Gulfstar center-cockpit sailboat. We sailed throughout the Caribbean, all the way to Venezuela and back. We lived that adventure until 2005.

GLWL: Apparently you weren't quite ready for a conventional house after living on a sailboat.

Robyn: Not exactly! When we returned, we moved to the Orlando area, bought a 36-foot fifth-wheel trailer and lived in it full-time.

GLWL: Then Cape Cod called you back?

Robyn: Yes. Beginning in 2011, my husband and I worked seasonally as park attendants for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers along the Cape Cod Canal. We spent April through October there each year for 11 years, through 2021.

GLWL: And where is home today?

Robyn: Lake Worth. We've lived in Esdra Court, The Fountains since 2011, and this is home.

GLWL: You've had careers in photography, advertising, membership development and entrepreneurship—and you've traveled extensively. What do you think all of those experiences have in common?

Robyn: People. I've always enjoyed meeting people, learning about what they do and building relationships. Whether I was behind a camera, working with businesses or traveling, connecting with people has always been part of my life.

GLWL: And now you're bringing all of that experience to Greater Lake Worth Living.

Robyn: Yes, and I'm excited to help local businesses become more visible and connect them with the people who live here.

One Last Question...

GLWL: Sailboat, RV or home in Lake Worth—which would you choose today?

Robyn: Home in Lake Worth! ∞

FAMILY OWNED & OPERATED

Tonya Keener-Blasco

From Beauty to Strength

After four decades of helping people feel beautiful on the outside, Tonya Keener-Blasco is beginning a powerful new chapter—creating a place where people can discover strength, confidence and community from within.

For Tonya Keener-Blasco, transformation has always been personal.

For 40 years, she experienced it from behind a salon chair. Her favorite moment was always the reveal: turning a client toward the mirror and hearing the joy in their voice as they said, “Oh my gosh, I love my hair. I feel so beautiful.”

Today, Tonya is creating a new kind of reveal—one that happens when people discover their strength, stand a little taller or enter a fitness studio and realize they have found a place where they belong.

That vision is at the heart of BODYBAR Pilates Lake Worth, Tonya’s newest venture and the beginning of her plan to build a connected Pilates community across South Florida.

“For 40 years, I helped people feel beautiful on the outside,” Tonya says. “Now, through Pilates, I get to combine my lifelong passion for fitness with my desire to help people feel strong and beautiful from the inside out.”

WHERE TWO PASSIONS MEET

Growing up in Waynesburg, Pennsylvania, Tonya developed an early appreciation for beauty, fashion and fitness. By her teenage years, she was carefully planning her outfits each night, paying attention to every detail—from her clothing and hair to her makeup. Even then, she understood that personal style was about more than appearance; it could influence how someone felt and carried themselves.

At the same time, fitness was becoming an important part of her life. Her love for movement began in high school and sparked a lasting interest in how exercise could help people become stronger and healthier.

At just 19 years old, Tonya became a hairdresser. She went on to own multiple salons and build a four-decade career centered on making people feel seen, cared for and beautiful.

In many ways, she is continuing that work today—only in a different setting.

Pilates strengthens smaller muscles, develops the core, improves posture and alignment, and changes the way a person carries themselves. For Tonya, it provides an opportunity to bring her lifelong passions together and help people feel their best from the inside out.

WHY BODYBAR

Tonya carefully researched different studios and franchise opportunities, but she kept returning to BODYBAR.

Its clean, bright aesthetic appealed to her love of beauty and design. It felt modern and elevated, yet still warm and welcoming. The BODYBAR boutique also gave her a natural way to bring fashion into this new chapter by selecting active-wear that helps members feel confident during their workouts and throughout the rest of their day.

What ultimately captured Tonya's heart, however, was BODYBAR's emphasis on community.

"One of the greatest things about owning a studio is the number of lives you get to touch and the community you get to build," she says. "That's the part I absolutely love."

MORE THAN A WORKOUT

Tonya does not envision a studio where members enter, complete a class and leave without being noticed. She wants BODYBAR Lake Worth to be a place where people are welcomed by name—where the team remembers their birthdays, asks about their vacations and may even know the names of their dogs.

"I don't want someone to walk into our studio, take a class and leave without anyone knowing who they are," she explains.

"Those little things are what turn a studio into a community, and sometimes those relationships turn into lifelong friendships."

Her goal is for BODYBAR to become a meaningful "third place"—the space beyond home and work where people gather, connect and feel that they belong.

HOME. WORK. BODYBAR.

Members will be encouraged to stay after class, talk, laugh, browse the boutique or catch up with the team and one another. Themed classes, special events and community activities will create opportunities for relationships to grow beyond a workout.

ners to experienced exercisers and athletes adding Pilates to their training. No one has to look a certain way, be a certain age or already be in shape to walk through the doors.

"There's a place at the BAR for everyone," Tonya says.

FAMILY, COMMUNITY AND THE FUTURE

This venture is especially meaningful because Tonya will have some of the people closest to her alongside her. Tonya's husband, Steve Blasco, is also a co-owner of BODYBAR Pilates Lake Worth, making the studio a shared family venture.

Her oldest daughter, Teassa, an experienced yoga and Pilates instructor, will serve as Fitness Manager at BODYBAR Lake Worth.

Mary Michael will also join the team from Tonya's BODYBAR Morgantown studio. Already familiar with the culture Tonya wants to create, Mary Michael will help bring its established spirit of connection to South Florida. She will later serve as Fitness Manager of the West Palm Beach location, expected to open in early 2027.

That welcome is especially important for anyone who may feel nervous about attending a Pilates class for the first time.

BODYBAR is truly for everybody and every body, and Tonya and her team strongly believe that.

The studio will welcome women and men across different ages, backgrounds and fitness levels—from complete begin-

COVER FEATURE - Tonya Keener-Blasco

Tonya selected the Merchants Walk location with the surrounding community in mind. In conversations with people throughout the area, she repeatedly heard a desire for something close to home—a welcoming place where residents could enjoy an excellent workout and feel connected.

She also loved how naturally BODYBAR could become part of the neighborhood's daily rhythm. Members could take a class, enjoy coffee, meet a friend or run an errand, making wellness an enjoyable part of their day.

"Tell me where you live. Tell me about yourself," Tonya says. "I want to know the people we're serving because I truly did make the decision to put our studio there with this community in mind."

Lake Worth is only the beginning. Tonya plans to open the West Palm Beach studio in the SoSo—South of Southern—area, followed eventually by a third South Florida location.

Her goal is to give members flexibility between the studios, allowing them to attend the location most convenient for their schedules.

"My vision isn't simply three Pilates studios," she says. "It's one BODYBAR community across South Florida."

BEYOND THE BAR

Tonya's vision for connection extends beyond the studio doors.

BODYBAR Lake Worth plans to offer themed classes, book clubs, complimentary mat Pilates classes, community events and opportunities to participate in local run clubs. Private sessions will also be available in a dedicated room.

The studio will provide a place to celebrate through private events, birthday parties, bachelorette parties and other special experiences.

Through local partnerships and shared activities, BODYBAR hopes to collaborate with the people, organizations and businesses that make the Greater Lake Worth area special.

Tonya does not want BODYBAR simply to operate within the community. She wants it to become an active part of it.

BE PART OF BODYBAR FROM THE BEGINNING

BODYBAR Pilates Lake Worth is expected to open in early November, but community members do not have to wait until opening day to become involved.

The studio will initially offer its Precision and Performance class formats, with five additional formats introduced gradually to provide members with different ways to challenge, strengthen and restore their bodies.

Founding Memberships are available throughout the presale period and offer special savings for those who join before the studio officially opens.

Founding Cheers Unlimited members can take up to two classes per day, while the Speakeasy Founding Membership includes eight classes per month. Both options are designed to give members the flexibility to build Pilates into their routines.

Founding Members will also be invited to participate in Founders Week—the week before opening—when they can visit the studio, meet Tonya and her team, and experience a workout.

Memberships will not be charged until the official opening day. Anyone who participates during Founders Week and decides BODYBAR is not the right fit will have an opportunity to cancel before being charged.

For the first 45 days after opening, new visitors will also be invited to experience their first BODYBAR class complimentary.

The most important first step is to join

Teassa Blasco

BODYBAR Lake Worth's email list. Subscribers will receive opening announcements, invitations to complimentary classes and events, studio news, membership information and boutique updates.

Community members can visit the BODYBAR Lake Worth website, download the BODYBAR app, call or email the studio, scan the magazine's QR code or stop by and introduce themselves.

After four decades of helping people recognize their beauty, Tonya is ready to help them recognize their strength.

"I want people to walk out feeling stronger, healthier, happier and more confident from the inside out," she says.

That is the purpose driving Tonya Keener-Blasco's next chapter—one shaped by beauty, strengthened by movement and built around community.

And with opening day approaching, Tonya cannot wait to welcome Lake Worth to the BAR.

Become a Founding Member before opening day, join the email list and be among the first to experience BODYBAR Pilates Lake Worth.

From Farmland to Fairways

Written and curated by Dr. Karina G. Felix

This is how farms, canals, early neighborhoods and golf communities created the Greater Lake Worth we know today

People who live near Lake Worth Road and Jog Road commonly say they live in Lake Worth. Yet many are miles from the boundaries of the incorporated city now called Lake Worth Beach.

How did “Lake Worth” become the identity of such a large inland community?

The answer begins with wetlands, farms and an ambitious effort to make central Palm Beach County suitable for settlement.

The Lake Worth Name Moves West

The original City of Lake Worth developed near the Lake Worth Lagoon and incorporated in 1913. Its name honored Colonel William Jenkins Worth, associated with the end of the Second Seminole War in Florida.

At first, most settlement remained close to the coast. The land farther west was flat, wet and difficult to farm without dependable drainage.

That began to change when the Palm Beach Farms Company acquired thousands of acres during the early 1900s. The company divided its inland holdings into agricultural tracts and marketed them to buyers across the United States and Canada.

Some purchasers received a tiny lot in the new Lake Worth town site as an incentive for buying five acres of farmland farther west. The coastal lots eventually became more valuable than many of the farms, but those inland sales established the property lines upon which much of Greater Lake Worth would later be built.

Canals Open the Land

The Lake Worth Drainage District was created in 1915 to drain and irrigate the land, control flooding and make settlement possible.

Its engineers designed an extensive grid of canals, ditches and water-control structures. The system allowed farmers to grow vegetables, raise livestock and establish nurseries on land that had once been seasonally wet.

Many canals running beside today's neighborhoods and golf courses are remnants of that agricultural era. They may look like ordinary waterways, but they helped create the landscape upon which Greater Lake Worth developed.

Greenacres Begins as a Working Community.

In 1923, Lawrence Carter Swain began assembling land for an affordable community intended for working- and middle-class families.

Swain platted the original settlement west of Military Trail and began selling lots in 1925. Greenacres City incorporated in 1926 with approximately 1,250 residents.

Its beginnings were difficult. Hurricanes in 1926 and 1928 nearly destroyed the young community. Residents rebuilt, and Greenacres gradually grew from its small original section into one of central Palm Beach County's principal cities.

Beyond it, however, farmland and open pine country still extended westward.

Postwar Families Head West

After World War II, Palm Beach County entered a period of rapid growth. Families looked beyond the crowded coastal communities for larger properties, open space and affordable homes.

Florida Gardens became one of the earliest recognizable neighborhoods along western Lake Worth Road. Its developer, Karl Beachler, came from Ohio, which explains street names such as Akron, Dayton, Canton and Cleveland.

Early advertisements promoted oversized lots, canals for fishing and boating, a clubhouse, picnic grounds and homes surrounded by native pine trees. Florida Gardens offered country living close enough to enjoy the conveniences of Lake Worth and West Palm Beach.

It helped establish a pattern that would define the region: independent communities connected by Lake Worth Road but possessing identities of their own.

Golf Changes the Landscape

The next transformation arrived with golf.

Palm Beach National Golf and Country Club opened in 1961 near the Florida Turnpike. It became one of the earliest major golf-centered developments in western Lake Worth.

Lucerne Lakes followed in 1970 as a large planned residential community. Its development eventually included numerous subdivisions, condominiums and a public golf course.

Around the same time, The Fountains began changing nearly 1,000 acres near Lake Worth and Jog roads. Fountains Country Club opened in 1972 with three championship courses surrounded by condominiums, townhouses and estate homes.

Poinciana emerged soon afterward. Its first condominium association dates to 1973, and Poinciana Golf Club opened in 1976. Unlike some private clubs, Poinciana's course was designed to offer accessible public golf.

During the late 1970s and 1980s, communities including Covered Bridge, Willow Bend and additional Lucerne developments welcomed more retirees and year-round residents. Farms and nurseries gradually gave way to homes, shopping centers and community clubhouses.

Why The Fountains Chose Lake Worth

The Fountains also contributed one of the area's best stories.

According to a former board member who served during the community's early Pineapple farming in the Lake Worth region, 1905. Agriculture shaped Palm Beach County long before inland neighborhoods and golf communities appeared. State Archives of Florida, Florida Memory, image MSC4989.

HISTORY - From Farmland to Fairways years, residents did not want The Fountains identified with Greenacres. The television comedy Green Acres, which aired from 1965 to 1971, portrayed rural life as charmingly chaotic and comically backward—not exactly the image residents wanted for their new country-club community.

They pressed for The Fountains to use Lake Worth as its address.

The choice did not place the community inside the incorporated City of Lake Worth. It remained principally part of unincorporated Palm Beach County. Nevertheless, its Lake Worth mailing address helped reinforce a regional identity that was already spreading west.

A Community of Communities

Greater Lake Worth was never developed as one municipality or master-planned town. It grew piece by piece: agricultural tracts, canals, small neighborhoods, golf courses, condominiums, retirement villages, schools and shopping centers.

Grazing at The Fountains

Lake Worth Road became its main street, while Jog Road emerged as a north-south crossroads. The communities surrounding them developed their own personalities but shared the Lake Worth name.

Traces of the old landscape remain. Canals still follow century-old drainage lines. Roads preserve the names of early developments. Former fairways reveal the enormous stretches of land once devoted to golf.

And outside my home in The Fountains, the story has taken one more unexpected turn.

Part of a former golf course now hosts a grazing herd of cows and steers. Every day, I can look outside and watch them wandering across land where golfers once searched for wayward balls.

Greater Lake Worth has traveled from farmland to fairways—and, at least in my backyard, back to the cows again, for now. ∞

Your Advertising Dollars Serve an Additional Purpose

Advertising in Greater Lake Worth Living does more than introduce your business to local residents. It helps increase your visibility, build recognition and create meaningful connections with potential customers.

But your investment also has a second purpose.

A portion of every advertising investment supports the Affidian Institute Foundation and its mission to create opportunity through youth entrepreneurship, small-business education and community economic development.

Working alongside Greater Lake Worth Society, the Foundation helps educate, connect and empower emerging entrepreneurs and local business owners—strengthening the economic future of Greater Lake Worth.

When you advertise with us, you are not simply purchasing space. You are investing in your business and helping others build theirs.

Your business gains exposure. Our community gains opportunity.
